

Need project management for an important IT project, but don't have a large budget?

Linder Consulting can help. We specialize in project management for non-profits and school districts and have several offerings to help you benefit from project management tools and processes without the excessive investment required by most consulting firms. Our methodology is designed specifically for non-profits and school districts whose budget challenges and staffing levels vary significantly from those in the private sector. We understand the operational and financial reporting needs of non-profits and are versed in systems that facilitate fund accounting. We also understand the critical nature of integrations between fundraising and financial systems that drive reporting to donors, the Board and the IRS.
